When assessing students, the announced assessment forms and criteria were followed. The internship supervisors in the company demonstrated how to perform practical tasks and maintained mutually respectful relationships.

Points to improve:

Students were introduced to the internship objectives and assessment procedure; however, some details could have been presented more clearly. Although the internship tasks were generally formulated in an understandable way, in certain situations there was a lack of more specific explanations or examples. The internship supervisor in the company or organization answered questions related to the practical activities. The practical activities were assessed according to established criteria, but more frequent feedback would be useful in helping students better understand mistakes and opportunities for improvement.
